February Offers!

Thoughts from Richard Steed

February is the month of Groundhog Day, which is really a polite way of saying “the dead of winter.” But this often downplayed or outright overlooked holiday, gave me pause to think. Like the groundhog, I have a choice. I can peek out from my burrow and say, “Yuck, it’s the dead of winter,” and hole up for another six weeks. Or I can say, “Yeah! Days are longer and brighter. Spring is on the way!”

I suppose, just like Bill Murray’s character in the movie Groundhog Day, we really make that choice every day of our lives.

I find February—our “dead of winter” month—to be our most interesting month. Aside from Groundhog Day being a rather interesting holiday concept, February has its own unique number of days, which is pretty cool. And it’s also the month in which we celebrate love. Usually, we tend to celebrate romantic love or love between parents and their children during this month. This February I challenged myself to think about what other kinds of love one might celebrate. It wasn’t much of a challenge because the answers came to me right away. I’ve said before how much I love my job and the people for whom I work. Those are facts worth celebrating every month!

Many people are not that fortunate to love what they do and whom they do it for. Other things I love? Recently we’ve had tons of requests for file purges. I love being part of the solution that helps offices in our region become organized and more efficient. I’m also thankful to be part of a community that takes information security seriously when it comes to shredding and recycling. I especially enjoy sharing with you every month through this newsletter.

I love that you respond to our trivia quizzes, take advantage of our coupons, send us referrals and share testimonials. But most of all, I love being “outside the burrow” making sure the information you’ve entrusted to us is safe and sound.

Have a LOVE-ly February!

Richard

Green Living: Small Cookin'

Heating up your standard electric oven creates almost three pounds of carbon dioxide. Consider alternatives if you are cooking smaller items. Appliances such as microwave ovens, toaster ovens, and slow cookers use far less energy and thus have less of an environmental impact.

Attracting Backyard Visitors

Winter is a great time to begin attracting and feeding birds around your home. The key is to keep your bird feeders clean and filled. During the winter months, fill your feeders every day, but only with an amount of seeds that the birds will eat in a day. This helps protect from scavengers such as squirrels and raccoons.

If there is snow in your yard, stamp down the snow around the feeder to allow birds to forage off the ground. Birds also need a steady supply of water for drinking and bathing. You can purchase small birdbath heaters to prevent your water source from freezing.

To keep birds coming back to your feeder, you will need to clean it. Use a mild bleach solution (1/4 cup bleach to two gallons of warm water) and be sure to rinse your feeder very well. With some luck and a bit of tender loving care, your yard can become an oasis to many feathered friends.

Bob's poor research skills led him to an unfortunate misinterpretation of "HIPAA Compliance."

Records Management Tips for Tax Season

Tax season is here, and for small business owners, waiting until the last minute to file can be costly. Now is the time to get your records in order. Tax preparation is time-consuming and stressful even when you're organized, but with a cluttered office, it's a real headache. Start by sorting your documents into groups based on their retention timeframe. Permanent records to keep indefinitely include:

- Brokerage statements
- Capital improvement related receipts
- Vital business documents

To protect and preserve your permanent records long term, store them offsite in a records center where they're tracked with bar codes, and make sure you can access them any time.

Records with current business, administrative, or marketing value may not have a legal retention requirement, but they still serve an important role to your company. Consider digitizing these documents to save space and enhance your workflow capability.

Identify any obsolete or expired documents. Permanently storing outdated records increases your identity theft, business fraud, and legal liability. Your document shredding provider can bring secure shredding containers to your office, allowing for a quick and secure purge of your expired documents.

Following these tips makes filing your taxes simpler and smoother. Remember to check with your tax professional to verify your tax filing requirements.
